

500 CHURCH LEADERS TO INVADE CITY

Did You Know
By Pat J. Kirwin

THAT Caleb Atwater, the man who first put Circleville on the map with his writings of the city's early settlement and who later became known as the father of education in Ohio, was a candidate for Congress from this district in 1822 but only ran fourth in a field of six candidates.

Duncan McArthur, an ancestor of Miss Dorothy McArthur, of this city, later to become governor of Ohio, was the winner in the congressional race with 1,032 votes. The district then included Pickaway, Ross, Hocking and Fayette-cos.

Circleville also had another candidate in the race besides Mr. Atwater. He was Richard Douglas, the county's first prosecuting attorney. Other candidates were Henry Brush, of Chillicothe; Edward King, of Hocking-co; Thomas Scott, of Fayette-co, and Mr. McArthur.

Strange as it seems, Pickaway-co's September grand jury recommended its candidate for Congress that year. It nominated Joshua Folsom, of this city, who happened to be foreman of the jury. Folsom declined to run for reasons he disclosed only to the grand jurors. Incidentally, this grand jury was dismissed on the first day of the term without returning a single bill. "This speaks well for the morals of our citizens," Circleville's newspaper, The Olive Branch, commented.

That Mr. Timothy Corn, a wealthy and industrious Walnut-twp farmer in 1822, would be a "thorn in the side" of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's hog reduction program if he were living today. The Olive Branch of the time records that Mr. Corn raised 326 head of hogs in the spring of '22 and brought two to the Circleville market, each weighing 362 pounds. "Let him who has slaughtered larger ones this season make it known," challenged the city's newspaper.

That it didn't pay to forget in 1822—even such small things as returning borrowed dictionaries. Indignant E. Powers, a resident of this city 112 years ago, attests to this fact in an advertisement he published in the newspaper here at the time. He spoke as follows: "The person who some months ago borrowed from me an octavo edition of Johnson's dictionary, will have the goodness to return it or I will painfully prosecute him."

THAT the "Religious Telescope," official organ and publication of the United Brethren church, which holds its 34th annual southeastern Ohio conference in this city next week, was first published on the present site of the church in 1839. It was published in the basement of the old church and O. E. Niles, father of Charles Niles, S. Washington-st, was foreman of the shop. Reuben Dresbach, father of Miss Martha Dresbach, was also employed in the shop. It was published here until 1853.

That sheriff's sales were frequent occurrences in Circleville 100 years ago. Newspapers of 1823 report that on January 8 of that year, Sheriff Francis Kline sold 25 Pickaway-co farms. Average price per acre of all of them was $12, it is reported.

That Thomas Jefferson, third president of the U. S. and "father of Democracy," is said to have traveled through Pickaway-co on a journey from Williamsburg, Va., to Philadelphia in 1775. He was enroute to Independence Hall where he wrote the Declaration of Independence.

KINGFISH HUEY READY TO TRY SOUTHERN CITY

Methods of Louisiana's "Official Boom" Recall Spaniards Acts.

"HEARINGS" TO OPEN

Press, Public Barred From New Orleans Case.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 1.—Kingfish Huey, a mere loud-mouth United States senator in Washington but military dictator in this sovereign state of Louisiana, today prepared to place the city government of New Orleans on trial in a drumhead court-martial setting that would have been the envy and delight of the Spaniards inquisition.

The inquisition had its soldiery to see that its grim bidding was done, and so has Huey, but it had no radio with which to put on an audible spectacle carefully attuned to catch the listening ear of the voter.

The first act of "virtue triumphant, or the trial of the big, wicked city," on which the current.

WRITER OF RANSOM NOTE IS WATCHED

Varn Taken to Bellevue Hospital After He sees "Man Come Through Floor."

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Benjamin Franklin Varn, author of the $168,000 ransom threat note sent to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, was under observation today in Bellevue hospital by order of Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey. Varn was committed following the reading of sworn affidavits that he had been driven to write the notes by a man who rose through the stone floor of his room.

The stock red-haired man, allegedly disabled for 13 years as a result of a blow on the head from an airplane propeller while he was in the naval air corps, said in the threat letter that his action had been inspired by Giuseppe Zangara, whose shots aimed at President Roosevelt in Miami in 1933 killed Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago.

Varn was arraigned on a charge of violating section 338-A of the United States criminal code—the so-called Lindbergh law—providing drastic penalties for those who send threats by mail.

His letter, intercepted by secret service agents, had threatened to harm the president and kidnap three of his grandchildren if the $168,000 were not handed over at a place to be designated later.

MOUNTED POLICE HUNT PROFESSOR

GLACIER PARK, Mont., Sept. 1.—The full resources and skill of the Canadian mounted police today were thrown into the search for Dr. F. H. Lumley, 27, missing Ohio State university faculty member.

Dr. Lumley was last seen at Goathunt camp, in Glacier National park, on Aug. 13.

The statement of Al Barry, Glacier park saddle horse guide, that Dr. Lumley had told him he planned to walk to Banff, Alt., led to the belief that he may be on the other side of the Canadian line.

The bureau of investigation of the United States department of justice was also called into the case.

Each of the three months had a record of better than a license a day, the total being 96.

There were 33 couples appeared at the local bureau during June, the month of brides; 32 came in July, and in August, generally regarded as an average month for marriages, there were 31, or one a day.

Probate court attaches believe that the genial dispenser of the licenses, Miss Alma Glick, should be given all of the credit for bringing in the business.

STRIKE PEACE HOPES FADING

Seven Developments Noted As General Textile Strike Approaches.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—With hope fading rapidly for immediate peaceful settlement of the impending general textile strike, manufacturers today were massing their forces to present a solid front against labor maneuvers in one of the greatest labor-management conflicts in the nation's history.

As each passing hour brought the seemingly inevitable walkout nearer—the strike has been set for 11:30 o'clock tonight—the following major developments occurred:

1. George A. Sloan, militant head of the Cotton Textile Institute, warned the industry's 450,000 workers that strike action would indefinitely defer wage increases.

2. Henry L. Harriman, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, declared that general concurrence by the workers in the strike call would constitute "a serious threat" to peaceful settlement of other labor disputes under the aegis of the NRA.

National Office To Remain Open

Order To Close It Is Rescinded By Justice; County Needed.

The order received here Friday morning closing the local branch of the National Reemployment service was withdrawn Friday evening by H. R. Justice, Ohio director of the service, and the office will continue its work here indefinitely, it was announced Saturday.

Reason for the withdrawal of the order could not be immediately ascertained, although A. M. Howard, of Lancaster, district NRS director, said he believed it was discovered by state authorities that it would be difficult to operate the service in this district by excluding Pickaway-co.

In ordering the office closed Friday morning in a communication to Howard, Mr. Justice, Ohio director, said it was being done to reduce operating expenses in the state as requested by Washington authorities.

Howard pointed out yesterday, however, that the office was being closed because of the lack of public works projects in the county.

It is believed that the present office staff composed of James T. Shea, manager, Morris Gordon, Misses Genevieve English, Jane Mador, and Velma Thrope, will be retained.

How long the office will remain open is not known, Howard said Saturday in announcing the withdrawal of Friday's order.

Speed Demon Trying to Break Own Record From West To East.

BURBANK, Cal., Sept. 1.—Col. Roscoe Turner, famous speed pilot, took off from the Union air terminal here at 3:03 a. m., today in an effort to break his own record between Los Angeles and New York. Col. Turner was flying his own Waco-Williams speed plane.

Col. Turner was to fly the regular transport air route between Los Angeles and the east via Albuquerque, N. M., and Wichita, Kans.

Col. Turner did not reveal to airport attaches here what time he expected to make on the record attempt, or at what speed he hoped to fly.

Normal flying conditions prevailed here when the speed plane lifted into the air under the floodlights at Union air terminal.

THE MESSAGE OF LABOR DAY

On Labor Sunday, the churches repeat the promise of peace on earth, goodwill to men. They seek to interpret for themselves and the world what this gospel of goodwill implies for our industrial civilization. The churches receive the living Christ and declare that His spirit should guide all human relations. The churches want their young men to see visions and their old men to dream dreams of a better world in which industry shall be planned to meet human needs.

According to Roger Babson the real productivity of man depends not so much on his physical strength or condition as upon his spiritual life, making religion the greatest latent force in the industrial and commercial world. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

The Message of the Top

What a lesson the top preaches!

The more balanced he is and the better his equilibrium, the more he stays in one place. When he is started in one direction and kept busily at his labor of spinning he goes a long time. The harder he is at work, the longer he is able to work. The faster he is, the faster he goes, the better he keeps his balance. He does his best work when he is started right. When he is spinning about, one cannot see his scratches and scars. They are, in fact streaks of decoration.

Just as he is running down and weak he turns and tries to go in a wrong direction, away from his old habits, and then, once again, takes up his former mode, but finds he can do neither and stops.

If the little top has to follow inherent principle, how much more do we! He is simple, obeying one law; and we are complex creatures obeying an underlying law of activity and operation—to stay upright, keep busy, maintain equilibrium and work to keep going.

Clericus says, "When one accepts Christ he accepts a program of justice and mercy among men;

he is called to relate his life to God's will and walk with humility with his Maker."

Being forced to work and forced to do your best, will breed in you temperance and self control, diligence and strength of will, cheerfulness, contentment and a hundred other virtues the idle never know. Kingsley.

Drudgery is often due to a spiritual sluggishness and a consequent failure to discover the human aspect of one's job.—

Roosevelt.

LESSON TEXT—Micah 2:1-3; 3:1-12; 6:1-8.
GOLDEN TEXT—He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God? Micah 6:8.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Micah Tells How to Please God.
JUNIOR TOPIC—What God Requires of Us.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What God Expects of Us.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Applied Religion.

I. Evil Workers Denounced (2:1-3).

1. How they worked (v. 1). Their evil work was not a matter of impulse, but of deliberate purpose.

a. They gave themselves to the devising of wicked schemes.
b. They worked evil upon their beds. They not only deliberately gave themselves up to the devising of wicked schemes, but used the quiet hours of the night while honest people were sleeping for planning ways of accomplishing their wicked schemes.

c. They executed their plans in the morning light. They did what their wicked minds devised.

2. What they did (v. 2).
a. They coveted fields (v. 2). In this they violated the tenth commandment.

b. They violently took away fields and houses (v. 2). A noteworthy example is found in the case of Ahab taking Naboth's vineyard. This in turn is an apt picture of the monopolists of today taking possession of land, oil, gold, silver, and other commodities.

c. They oppressed men and their houses (v. 2). By house here is meant a man's descendants, that is, the inheritors of his property.

3. Their punishment (v. 3). Against such evil-doers righteous retribution is being devised and shall fall upon the wicked with such weight as to humble them.

II. Upon Whom Judgment Shall Fall (3:1-8).

1. The unfaithful rulers (vv. 1-4). Because of love for the evil and a hatred for the good, the rulers mercilessly destroyed the people.

2. The false prophets (vv. 5-8). They served for hire. As long as supplied with food, they prophesied to please the people.

III. The Judgment Which Was to Fall (vv. 9-12).

Jerusalem was destroyed because of the sins of the people. Just as the righteous retribution then fell, we are assured that there will be no escape from the coming judgment for those who destroy the people.

IV. God's Controversy With His People (6:1-13).

Wicked men may go on to a certain time with their schemes, but eventually they will be obliged to give an account to God.

1. The hills and mountains are called to bear witness against Israel (v. 21). The people had turned a deaf ear to God, so that the human creation was called to witness against them. The whole realm of nature bears witness to the fact of God's being and his goodness.

2. The guilty to be left to state the case (v. 3). Through the prophet, God, the King of the Universe, abdicates his rights and allows his sinning people to make charges against him. The one who has right on his side fears no argument.

3. God recounts his mercies unto the people (vv. 4, 5). Having called for the charge and none having been brought, the Lord thrusts home upon their conscience the memory of his great mercies unto them.

a. He brought them out of Egyptian bondage (v. 4). He has done even more for us who were under bondage to sin and Satan.

b. He sent before them a trio of leaders (v. 4). Moses the lawgiver, Aaron the high priest, and Miriam the prophetess were sent as his witnesses.

c. Turned Balak's curse into a blessing through Balaam (v. 5).

4. God's requirements (vv. 6-13).
a. The great question, "Wherefore shall I come before the Lord?" (v. 6). The Jews could not deny the charge brought against them by the Almighty. They could make no plea for justification.

b. The complete answer (v. 8). (1) "To do justly." Strict equity was to characterize all their dealings with their fellowmen. (2) "To love mercy." The heart is to be diligently set to do good to our fellows, especially the needy and dependent. (3) "To walk humbly with thy God." To recognize that they were sinners before God, that they had no claim upon him except his pardoning love.

Church Forum

What may the church do advantageously in reference to the present industrial system?

"The church cannot give the final word upon economic schemes but in the name of Christ it must pass judgment upon the results of every social economy. The church must inquire as to the actual number of unemployed, the degree to which the organization of labor and consumers has advanced in comparison to the organization of employers and the net gain in the redistribution of income and purchasing power as reflected by more rapid advance in wages and consumer income than in the cost of living. The church must insist that economic experiment shall proceed until it evolves a social order in which men and women everywhere shall have a real opportunity for the good life."—Excerpt from the Labor Sunday Message of the Federal Council of Churches.

Our people are invited to attend any of the sessions of the United Brethren conference to be held from Tuesday to Sunday. We join a welcome to all who come to our community to consider the work of Christ's Kingdom in the world in such a time as this.

Monday is Labor Day—a national holiday. The changing times and conditions are making many problems. Ours is a complex civilization. We are prone to go to extremes, extremes in our thinking, in our acting. It is hard to break away from traditions, from customs, from long established feelings, rights. Without the spirit of Christ there is no solution for our vexing problems unless we resort to force as has been done in some European countries. But we do not stand ready to surrender our freedom. Then what? Mutual cooperation, the spirit of service, the surrender of avowice. All men must share in earth's bounty. A way must be found. Go to church tomorrow and so help create a spirit of brotherliness and kindness and justice. Take it first.

Scoreless Tie Result of Pro-College Grid Game

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—They smashed all that was mortal of Knute Rockne to the ground on that eventful morning in March, 1931.

But they didn't kill Rockne. Not the Rockne who emerged from the grave last night to lead the College All-Stars to a scoreless tie with the greatest football team in the world. Not the Rockne whose running attack halted the Chicago Bears in their tracks a 0-0 deadlock when the world's championship professional team anticipated an easy victory over the fresh young men from the classrooms of the nation.

Rockne wasn't there. And yet I am not so sure he wasn't among the 79,432 who pulsated at the spectacle of All-American fancy taking form in the shadow of a century of progress. For there was the kind of football he taught at Notre Dame. There was the Notre Dame system, carried on by Noble Kizer, the student. There it was, staring the Bears in the face every time they decided it was a good idea to go somewhere.

BETTER THAN EXPECTED

It wasn't much of a game. There weren't any touchdowns when there should have been some by the Bears. There weren't any spectacular plays when there should have been some by the Bears. But George Halas, owner of the Bears, had a good alibi. He said:

"They were better than we thought they would be. You can't beat that Notre Dame running attack."

That's why I like to think that Rockne was there—Not in the flesh, but surely there in some form, chucking as only the great master of the gridiron could.

It was a great spectacle, if not a great football game, and maybe it was even that. It started out

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

LENT HANSEN, OF COLUMBUS, will be defending his laurels Monday when The Herald trophy is the prize for the annual Laor Day tournament—Hansen won the cup last year with a brilliant 67 net score and is playing good golf right now, so must be counted in the running * * *

Harry Short and his little black wiggler, T. D. Van, turned in three neat performances at the state fair Friday afternoon to sweep the event in which they were entered—Short, Wayne-twp native, put T. D. Van out in front at the go and remained there through all three heats—The track record was broken twice by Ray Henley, Dayton horse, in a special match. * * *

ACCORDING TO ALL PLANS the recreation ball banquet will be held Wednesday at 7 p. m. at the Mecca restaurant with all players, managers, umpires and league officials to attend * * * More details about the feed will be announced in Tuesday's paper * * *

Two ball games are promised over the week-end with the Given Oils playing Bloomington, Sunday, and Raymond Smith's outfit tangling with a Columbus team, Labor Day.

21 HOPEFULS ANSWER CALL OF HI MENTOR

Regular Practices Start Tuesday With Two-Per-Day Beginning Wednesday.

Two-per-day football practice will start Wednesday for Circleville high school gridders, Coach Pete Herberholz announced Saturday afternoon. A session will be held Tuesday but work will begin in earnest Wednesday.

The thud of a cleated foot against pigskin and the smash of bodies against the hard ground will prevail on the high school gridiron regularly from Tuesday on. The difficult duck-walk and other calisthenics will be used by Coach Herberholz to get his athletes in shape.

21 AT PRACTICE

Twenty-one of them turned out Friday and more are expected Tuesday. The squad possesses possibilities and the Red and Black mentor is hopeful of a successful season. He has a number of holes to fill but hopes to have enough good boys out to provide a strong entrant in the Central Buckeye league race. An opening game is still being sought with the Lancaster game there still the earliest on the schedule.

Coach Herberholz and Faculty Manager E. I. Gephart were in Columbus today attending a rules committee meeting of the Ohio High School Athletic association, Buckeye conference, Ohio conference and Ohio Officials' association. Speakers will be Fielding Yost, Michigan's veteran mentor, and Francis Schmidt, new Ohio State coach.

SEEK PRESIDENT

At noon the two local men will attend a Central Buckeye league meeting at which a successor to George Stewart, of Delaware, as president will be sought. Mr. Stewart is no longer at Delaware so a new president is needed.

STRIKE PEACE

3. Manufacturers in Paterson, N. J., center of the nation's silk production, issued a surprise ultimatum to their workers that a sympathetic walkout in connection with the textile strike would mark a definite end to labor negotiations through union representatives in that area.

4. Throughout the production centers in the eastern area, mill operators continued to discount effectiveness of the strike. Union leaders, meanwhile, pressed steadily ahead with plans for picket lines at the various plants.

5. Neither recovery administrator Johnson, NRA chieftain, nor President Roosevelt took cognizance of the threatening situation, although both were believed in close touch with developments. Both the president and the administrator are vacationing, the former at the Hyde park summer white house and Johnson at a Delaware Beach resort.

6. Marking a definite threat to industries allied with textile operations, union leaders issued a strike call to 150,000 wool and worsted textile workers.

7. Francis J. Groom, soft-spoken textile labor leader in direct charge of strike plans, called a conference to determine whether 200,000 workers in the silk industry would be ordered away from the looms.

Mrs. Jack Heeter and Miss Evelyn Purcell will leave Sunday for Chicago where they will attend the Century of Progress exposition.

5 KILLED

The ship swung in over county highway A to land, but one wing struck a row of trees and the transport plane struck the embankment and immediately caught fire.

Rescuers were kept at a distance from the blazing plane by the intense heat which prevented them from recovering the four bodies. Farmers found the body of Truelsen several yards from the wreckage where he had been thrown by the impact of the crash.

The plane left Kansas City at 6:15 p. m. and arrived at St. Joseph on scheduled time where it remained until 10:30 while the storm was raging.

SIGNALLED LANDING

H. Stitt, traffic manager of the air line, said Pilot Bontrager had been in constant radio communication with the airport at Kansas City prior to the crash and signalled that he was going to attempt a landing.

drawing to make Renick's election unanimous. The new chairman's father was one of the Republican party's leaders in this city for a number of years part of that time being served as mayor.

Twenty-nine members attended the meeting. The entire list of executive committee members, selected by the central committee, was not available Saturday since John E. Walters, Circleville-twp. chairman of the central committee, has the only known list. He could not be reached before press-time.

THANK CHAPPELEAR

The committee voted to have the new secretary either in writing or personally to thank Mr. Chappelle for his good services of the past 18 months.

The county Republican organization intends to rent campaign headquarters and go to work on the fall campaign. Finance, rules and other committees will be announced soon.

Forty Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee members received notices in Saturday's mail that an organization meeting will be held next Wednesday evening in the commissioners' room of the county auditor's office.

The cards were sent out by C. A. Leist, chairman.

The new committee includes 12 new persons, 11 being added and Charles Miller being named to replace Robert G. Colville, who is a candidate.

Who will be elected chairman of the new committee is a matter for conjecture since it has been reported Mr. Leist would be re-named, and that either George G. Adkins or Richard Simkins would also be chosen.

KINGFISH HUEY

tain rises at 10 o'clock this morning, will be a radio drama.

PRESS, PUBLIC BARRED

The press, the public, even the accused, may tune their radios to the spot on the dial where one of New Orleans broadcasting stations comes in if they want the hearing of corruption charges, or they can read Huey's mouthpiece, "The American Progress."

But stalwart Louisiana national guardsmen will see to it that they do not pass the doors of the Louisiana Insurance commission on the 18th floor of the Canal Bank building where will be held the legislative investigation of charges, originally promulgated by Senator Huey P. Long, that Mayor T. Semmes Walmesley and other New Orleans officials get a $13,000,000 annual graft raffle from gambling establishments and the red-light district.

For the moment in this bizarre trial of a city by a state administration under the thumb of a political dictator, who has boasted that he will impeach its mayor, it's the public and the press he damned. Senator Long, from his military guarded mansion, late last night confirmed reports of exclusion of the press and public from the investigation.

"That's right, I understand the press will be excluded from the hearing tomorrow, and the public, too," he said.

Huey is prosecutor-in-chief for the nine legislators who will hear the charges, weigh the evidence and determine the guilt of those members of the New Orleans city administration who are summoned before them.

AIDE, COUSIN JUDGES

The committee members—one, Senator James Noe, the chairman, and reputedly Long's choice for governor in 1936, and another a cousin of the Kingfish—have been consistent supporters of his measures in the legislature.

The specific charges and those who will stand trial remained a mystery early today, one perhaps to be solved as the enactment of the drama via the air began.

In the livestock judging contest the team from Van Wert placed first in a field of 32 teams. The team members were Dale Runion, Paul Good, and Kenneth Haines.

In a style review, in which 50 girls took part, wearing clothing of their own handiwork, Lerline Young of Bremen, Fairfield-co, won first.

Several of the winners earn trips to national fairs and livestock shows through the excellence of their exhibits.

DRIVER EXHAUSTED, TRUCK IS DAMAGED

When he fell asleep and the truck he was driving careened off the road and upset, Robert Yono, 35, of 735 Hanford-st, Columbus, suffered bruises and cuts Friday at midnight.

Yono was driving south on Route 23 when the truck went off the road near the intersection of the Walnut-creek-pk, just outside the city limits.

The driver told Sheriff Charles Radcliff that he was enroute to West Virginia to get a load of cattle and had been driving two days and two nights without sleep. The truck was owned by Ward Davis, of Columbus.

Badly damaged, the truck was towed to the E. E. Clifton garage.

Police Court

GIRL STILL HELD

Authorities in the office of Ray O'Donnell, U. S. District Attorney in Columbus, were to confer with Prosecuting Attorney Ray W. Davis today in the case of Thelma Cotton, 17, of Huntington, W. Va., who has been held in the county jail during the past few days.

The girl was arrested several days ago at the home of H. Moore, S. Pickaway-st, after local police had been asked by her grandfather, a resident of Huntington, to return her there.

Questioned by a U. S. Department of Justice agent here yesterday, Miss Cotton said she was brought to this city by Moore. It was hinted that Moore may be charged with violating a federal law.

DRIVE CONTINUES

The drive against motorists in Pickaway-co using fictitious license tags was continued Friday as two more violators were haled into Mayor Cady's court by State Highway Patrolman L. B. Atkinson.

Vasco Brown, this city, was fined $25 and costs, gave bond for the amount and was released, while Edward Meehan, also of here, was fined the same amount but upon paying $10 and costs was released. The remainder of the fine was suspended.

DOUGLAS RESIGNS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The resignation of Lew Douglas, youngish, independent director of the budget, was accepted in Washington today as marking still another distinct cleavage between the "new dealers" and the "old dealers" in matters of federal fiscal policy.

The resignation was not wholly unexpected, for it has been known for some time that Douglas has been out of sympathy with the spending plans of the administration, and the methods adopted to obtain the necessary funds. Douglas is a conservative, almost ultra-conservative, where federal finances are concerned.

S. S. STOUT DIES

Samuel S. Stout, 86, well known Walnut-twp man, died Friday at 9 p. m. at the home of his son, Beecher, in Etina, O. Infirmities caused death.

Mr. Stout is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Cora Warner, Ashville; three sons, Dr. J. O. Stout, Columbus; Beecher, at whose home he died, and Charles B., of Buffalo, N. Y.

The funeral will be at Mr. Stout's home in Walnut-twp Monday at 10 a. m. with interment in Reber Hill cemetery by Elmer Mauger, Basile.

SYNOPSIS

Years ago, Ann Haskel, dominant Oak farmer, sent her fatherless son, John Herbert, away in the care of Judge Shannon, so that the boy could be educated properly. No one knew the heartache this sacrifice caused Ann. In John Herbert's place, Ann raised a ne'er-do-well stepson, Jeff Todd. Ann, Jeff, and Nance Jordan, Ann's housekeeper, live together on the farm. Following graduation from college, John Herbert returns home. The young man is stunned to find his mother a crude mountain woman, but he overlooks this in gratitude for all she did for him. Ann, on the other hand, is disappointed that her son is anxious to write instead of practicing law. Diane Carroll, a young artist, who values her work above her wealth, which she keeps secret, and John Herbert become boon companions. One day, Jeff, jealous of John Herbert, tries in vain to get his stepbrother to fight. Ann tells John Herbert he will have to fight Jeff or there won't be any living for him or her. She is as puzzled by her son's ignorance of backwoods ethics as he is bewildered by her attitude. Ann hears the vacationists at the Lodge jokingly call her "Ma Cinderella" and resents their ridicule. Diane encourages John Herbert to continue with his writing, but he realizes it will be years before he has a decent income and can repay his mother. The Lodge guests poke fun at his mother. This makes John Herbert realize that, with his responsibilities, Diane is beyond his reach. She, however, thinks of him constantly. Never before had she been so attracted to any man and John Herbert needed her. Ann comes upon Diane in the glade and tells the artist she has come to settle with her. Asked if she wants to marry John Herbert, Diane replies: "Your son never mentioned the subject." "Shucks!" retorts Ann, "your kind don't never marry no man less he's got money." Little did Ann realize that Diane herself was wealthy and wanted someone to love her for herself alone. The girl frankly tells Ann it is a pity John Herbert could not have had a mother with intelligence enough to understand and appreciate him and that Ann is spoiling that for which she herself had sacrificed so much. Ann warns Diane to stay away from her son. Later an automobile with a liveried chauffeur drives up to Ann's door.

CHAPTER XXIV

Concealed by the house itself from those in front, the two women hurried to the kitchen. Curiously they peered through the window. The chauffeur was now standing beside the car. The gentleman was not in sight.

"It's a big car, ain't it?" whispered Nance. "An' see, that feller's got on a uniform like I said. Sure looks like he war an officer of some kind."

A loud knocking sounded through the house.

"Other man's at the door," whispered Ann.

The knocking sounded again. "I reckon you'd best go an' see what they're a-wantin'," directed Ann, grimly. "But fetch me that gun from beside the fireplace first."

From behind the half-open kitchen door Ann listened while Nance cautiously opened the front door and received the stranger's greeting. He was a well-fed, well-groomed, mild-eyed gentleman of perhaps fifty years, and his manner as he removed his hat and bowed fascinated the backwoods woman.

"How do you do, madam," he said precisely.

"Howdy."

"Are you Mrs. Haskel?"

Nance might be charmed, but she was not off her guard.

"What air you a-wantin' of her?"

The stranger smiled. "If you are Mrs. Haskel I will explain."

"You can do your explainin' to me."

The gentleman's tone was a shade more precise. "My business is with Mrs. Haskel. Is she at home?"

Nance stared at him silently. "May I come in?"

"Not till I know who you be an' what you're a-wantin'."

He offered his card.

Nance, who could not read a word, received the bit of pasteboard as if it were a bomb.

"I am James Levering," explained the stranger. "I represent the Fidelity Trust and Savings Bank of Holmsburg, Pennsylvania. I assure you it is quite necessary that Mrs. Haskel see me."

"I'll call Ann," Nance returned, doubtfully, and, with admirable caution, closed the door.

While Mr. Levering waited the two backwoods women in the kitchen held a whispered consultation.

"Holmsburg, Pennsylvania," murmured Ann.

"Twenty years," was the reply.

"WEIRD SIGNS OF FROST"

LAKE MOHAWK, N. J.—Six weeks to frost. If you are suffering from the sun's rays be of good cheer for frosty weather is not far in the future. So says George Hughes of this town. George, whose weather predictions are based on the amount of fuzz on a caterpillar's back and the circles around the moon claims to have heard the katy-dids for three nights in succession. This he says, is one sure sign that frost is six weeks away.

"TRAP INSECTS IN AIR"

DILLON, Mont.—Forest-damaging insects are being captured at an altitude of 8,000 feet by means of a foot box kite flown by the U. S. Forest Service.

"How long did it take you to work out the details of the money?" the man asked.

"I don't know," the woman replied. "I was just thinking of it."

"I don't know," the woman replied. "I was just thinking of it."

mured Ann. "I mind Herb's paw used to tell 'bout sich a place. His folks settled there in the early days. Levering? Never heard tell of him, though."

"Do you reckon he's a revenuer?"

"Revenuer? Shucks! He's some body from that bank like hit says on the card. He's a banker; that's how come he's got a automobile like that with a driver all toggled out in pitcher clothes."

When Ann appeared in the doorway Mr. Levering regarded her with an air of mild triumph. "You are Mrs. Haskel?"

"I be."

The mountain woman endured the stranger's scrutiny with a countenance which might have been carved from stone.

"Pardon me, Mrs. Haskel, but my business with you is of such a nature that it can scarcely be transacted here on your doorstep."

"Come in, mister."

Mr. Levering called to the chauffeur. "My briefcase, please," and entered the Haskel living-room.

Nance slouched in from the kitchen and sidled into the nearest chair.

While waiting for his briefcase the stranger looked about the room. Evidently he had never before seen the interior of a backwoods dwelling. Then his attention became fixed on the well-filled bookshelves in the corner. "Ah—a library!"

"They ain't mine; they're my son's," said Ann.

"Oh yes—yes, of course. May I ask your son's name?"

"Weuns ain't got no call to be ashamed of the name, mister. Hit's John Herbert Haskel."

"John Herbert. I see—yes, yes, John Herbert, of course. Named after his grandfather John, and his grandfather's brother Herbert. Very good, very good."

At this Ann drew a little back and, unnoticed by Levering, who was taking his briefcase from the chauffeur, exchanged wondering looks with Nance.

As Levering dismissed the chauffeur Ann asked, harshly, "What might your business be with me, mister?"

"I am here to see you, Mrs. Haskel, about an estate which our company is holding in trust until certain terms of the trust are fulfilled. If you do not mind I should like to ask a few necessary questions."

"I reckon you ain't got no authority to make me answer. You ain't no officer of any kind, be you?"

"Certainly not, Mrs. Haskel. I am merely the legal representative of our company. I assure you it is to your interest—that is, I think it is—for you to assist us with any information you may have."

"What be you aimin' to find out?"

"We are endeavoring to find the legal heir, or heirs, to the estate of John Haskel."

"John Haskel war my boy's grandpappy, an' my boy air the last of the Haskels livin'."

"And you are Ann Haskel—the widow of Edward Haskel and the mother of this boy, John Herbert, are you?"

As the lawyer put this question his eyes were fixed on the mountain woman's face in the manner of an attorney examining a difficult witness. Ann Haskel gazed back at him, wondering, suspicious, defiant.

"I sure am, mister."

Nance Jordan muttered an exclamation under her breath, and Ann whirled on her with a look of such fierce warning that she shrank as from a blow. Levering was opening his briefcase and did not notice.

Producing a photograph of a group of four people, the lawyer handed it to Ann.

"Mrs. Haskel, can you identify the people in that photograph?"

The mountain woman answered, slowly. "I know where they be if that's what you mean."

Nance slouched forward to look over Ann's shoulder, and Ann turned her head to stare at her companion meaningly.

"Who are they, please?" asked the lawyer.

With her eyes on the photograph the mountain woman answered, slowly. "I see. Yes, that's you and your husband, Edward, the son of John, and the father of young John Herbert. Now Mrs. Haskel, suppose you tell me about your life after you were married to Edward Haskel in Greenville, Kentucky. By the way, you have your marriage certificate, have you?"

Silently Ann produced two marriage certificates from the box. "That hit is, mister, an' that's Grace's too."

While the lawyer examined the documents and compared them with his notes, the two backwoods women took advantage of the opportunity to exchange significant looks. Nance frowned and protesting. Ann scowled a silent command for her companion to keep out of whatever it was that was going on.

SCRAP IRON EXPORTS

WASHINGTON—Exports of scrap iron and steel from the United States in the first half of the current year were the highest ever recorded in a six-month period, according to the Commerce Department's Iron and Steel Division. During the 1934 period, 738,848 gross tons were shipped to foreign markets, representing an increase of 108 per cent over the 344,354 ton trade recorded for the same half of 1933 and being approximately six and one-half times the total for the first half of 1932.

Facts About Your Blood Pressure

Variation May Be an Indication of a Change in Health

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

MANY MOTHERS worry about blood pressure. When it is high or low they think they have some disease. As a matter of fact a variation in blood pressure is hardly more than an index to the state of the general health.

Of course, the individual with what the doctors call "normal" blood pressure is fortunate, because it gives assurance that the heart and circulation may be "low" or "high" and not be a sign of anything to cause worry.

Blood pressure is really the measure of the force exerted by the blood against the walls of the arteries. The arteries are the vessels which carry the nourishing and cleansing blood from the heart to different parts of the body. If it were not for the pressure there would be a tendency for the blood to remain in the lower or most dependent part of the body. The rest of the body would suffer and die.

Varies With Individuals
The degree of blood pressure varies in different individuals. The average blood pressure for an individual between the ages of twenty and thirty is around one hundred and thirty. As we grow older the blood pressure usually rises. In some this rise may be sudden and detrimental to the general health.

In others the blood pressure becomes lower than the average. A great deal of emphasis is placed on high blood pressure but too little attention is given to it when it is low. It is true that many persons have this symptom and apparently are in good health. If the condition progresses to an extreme, there are likely to be definite signs of some disorder. The victim of low pressure tires easily and has very little "pep". His general health may be poor, with a tendency to colds, minor infections and other disturbances.

Low blood pressure often follows some acute infectious disease, such as pneumonia, diphtheria, influenza and typhus fever. Also it is found in tuberculosis and certain glandular displacements. When the underlying cause is discovered and corrected the pressure returns to normal, with subsequent improvement in general health.

If Pressure Is Abnormal
It is interesting to learn that low blood pressure is more common among those possessing a certain physique. For example, the individual who is thin, with a long and narrow frame, usually has a low pressure. In contrast to this type, the man who is heavy-set and overweight is more inclined to suffer from high blood pressure. Any alteration in blood pressure should arouse suspicion and be sufficient warrant for a careful investigation.

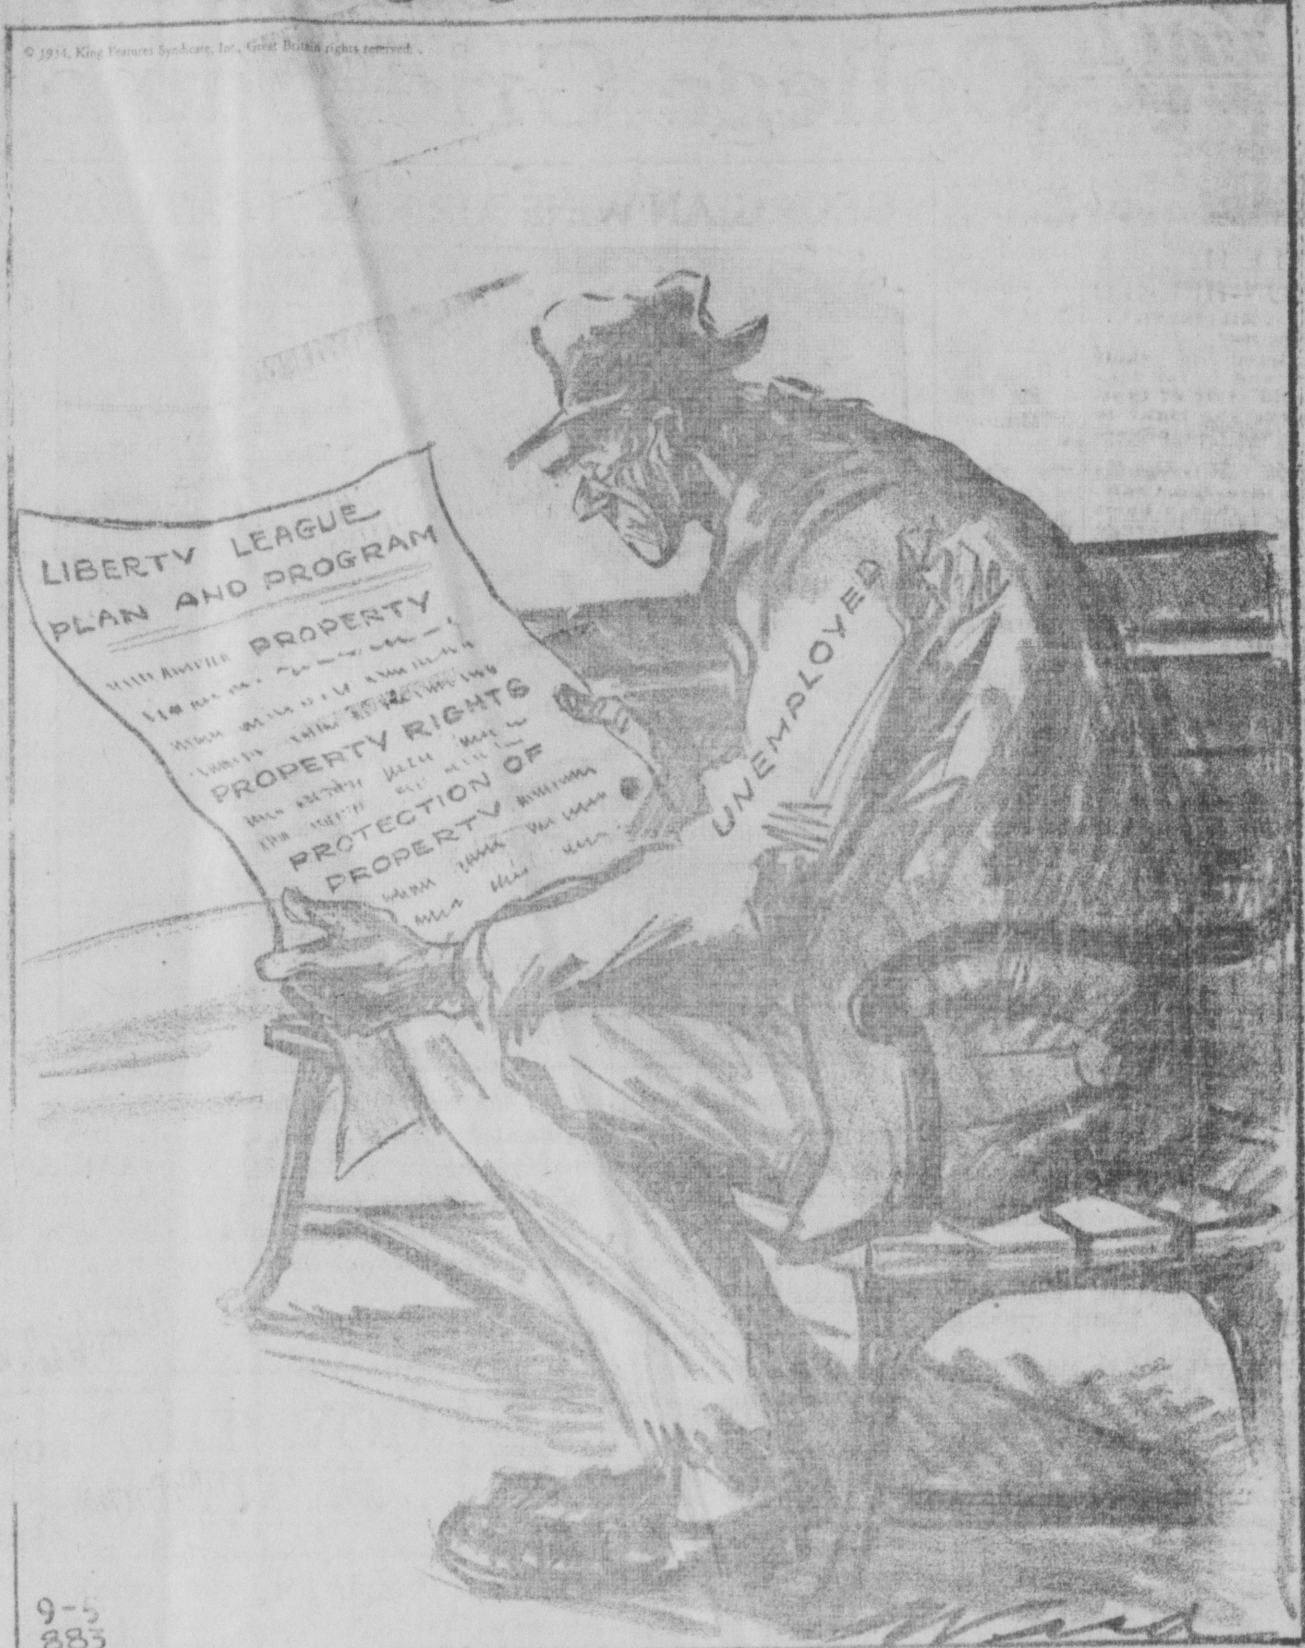

Neglect of high blood pressure or low blood pressure is a mistake. For a time it may do no harm but eventually it may lead to injury of the heart, lungs, blood vessels and other organs of the body. The treatment varies with the individual and can only be determined by the doctor.

If you have been told you have abnormal blood pressure follow the instructions given you by your doctor. If you have not recently consulted with him I would advise that you do so.

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout troop No. 4 enjoyed night camping at Sippco park Wednesday evening. The girls left at 2 p. m. and spent the afternoon in games and swimming.

The entire work for the experience was done by patrol organization, each group being assigned to a particular duty.

At evening campfire, stunts, games and singing made the hours pass quickly. One patrol dramatized the Childhood of Hiawatha. Costume, firelight and natural setting added to the effect. After the night's fun and breakfast served camp style, the girls restored the camp to normal, played games and came to Circleville to have lunch in their own homes.

The all night camping was the culmination of an out-door program extending over the entire summer.

When a kid is just starting to grow up, he asks some funny questions. I don't suppose anybody can answer them and then keep up with the kid's arguments. It seems like the kid loses his thinking without any prejudice to get mixed up with the result, or something. Anyway, he stumps the dad and the mother, and I guess that'd be the case, even if the kid had the smartest folks that ever lived. The kid can think as fast as a lot of people, but he kintia cuts across lots and don't get lost quite so easy.

The worst questions kids ask is about God and heaven and hell and all that, and they don't never seem to understand quite all their folks tells them. One kid that I was told about today says, "Mama, did God make all the elephants we saw at the circus?"

"Yes, Yes, sure. 'Twasn't hardly any trouble for Him, neither."

So the kid looks around awhile and then asks, "And say, who made all these flies?"

The mother says, of course, that God made them, too. So the kid looks around awhile and then God to make me and the elephants.

But seems to me like making flies is kinda triflin' business."

LOST 20 LBS. OF FAT IN JUST 4 WEEKS

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo. writes: "I'm only 28 yrs. old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce as tens of thousands of men and women know.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at any drugstore—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

WHEN a kid is just starting to grow up, he asks some funny questions. I don't suppose anybody can answer them and then keep up with the kid's arguments. Seems like the kid does his thinking without any prejudice to get mixed up with the result, or something. Anyway, he stumps the dad and the mother, and I guess that'd be the case, even if the kid had the smartest folks that ever lived. The kid can think as fast as a lot of people, but he kinda cuts across lots and don't get quite so easy.

The worst questions kids ask is about God and heaven and hell and all that, and they don't never seem to understand quite all their folks tells them. One kid that I was told about today says, "Mama, did God make all them elephants we saw at the circus?"

"Yes, sure. 'Twasn't hardly any trouble for Him, neither."

So the kid looks around awhile and then asks, "And say, who made all these flies?"

The mother says, of course, that God made them, too. So the kid thinks it over a while and then says: "Well, it was all right for God to make them the elephants. But seems to me like making flies is kinda triflin' business."

Arrested by German secret police, 21-year-old Israel A. Levitan, above, of Rock Island, Ill., was questioned four hours after copies of his cables from Germany to an American newspaper syndicate were confiscated. His father, Rabbi Solomon Levitan, prepared to ask the state department to request the German government to guarantee the young man's safety.

Welles In Charge of Reciprocity Treaties For State Department

WASHINGTON — Cordell Hull finally has awakened to the fact that his much-ballyhooed reciprocity treaties were going dead in his hands, and has decided to step on it. He has turned all Latin-American treaties over to Assistant Secretary Sumner Welles, who is not afflicted with sleeping sickness. The Senate Munitions investigators have unearthed the fact that a prominent American munitions firm served as an agent in selling munitions to the "heathen." They have also discovered close ties not only between mysterious Sir Basil Zaharoff and American munitions firms, but also with the great French munitions firm of Schneider and with the chief British munitions firm of Vickers. In fact the investigators claim to have unearthed an international munitions pool, of which the duPonts are members.

Silverware

Missouri's ex-Senator Harry B. Hawes is a busy man these days. President Roosevelt has promised to spend a week-end sometimes this fall at the Jefferson Island Club House, in Chesapeake Bay, and Hawes, as chairman of the Exclusive Democratic Club, has the job of preparing for the visit.

The $8,000,000 Federal Archives Building although still under construction already has been found inadequate and plans are under consideration for adding several stories. This is a far cry from the size of the Government's archives some 150 years ago when the Capital was moved from Philadelphia to Washington. Then all federal records were dumped into a single trunk and carried in a one-horse buggy.

August is usually a quiet month in the silverware business, but last month was an exception. The White House went into the market for some new dining service, and there was a hectic scramble for the order. Mrs. Roosevelt finally chose a pattern. All White House silver bears the inscription "The President's House."

Profits

The Treasury is as mute as a clam about its $2,000,000,000 Stabilization Fund, but some of the younger executives, if questioned, smile contentedly and hum "Good grief, how the money rolls in!"

Fact is that the canny manipulations of Young Henry Morgenthau have given the Fund show a very handsome profit. Big Jim Farley has changed his ghost speech writer. For a few weeks, Jim's emanations hit a very low note, portions of his addresses bordering almost on illiteracy. His latest speech, however, shows a really improved tone, thanks, insiders say, to the return from his vacation of able Charley Michelson, press chief of the Democratic National Committee.

Text Book

A unique literary alliance has just been concluded. Mrs. Roosevelt, the President's wife, Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, TVA Director, and Senator Bennett Clark, author of a widely-acclaimed biography of John Quincy Adams, have joined in collaboration to write a text book for high school students. The book will bear the title, "You and Your High School." Maryland's Representative William P. Cole, Jr., has notified the oil industry that regardless of whether he is re-elected, there will be a red-hot "hot-oil" probe. Cole is chairman of the special oil investigating committee authorized by the last Congress, and has been warned by some of the industry that unless he "laid off" a vigorous election fight would be made against him.

Laughing Around the World With IRVIN S. COBB

The Unaccommodating Kansan

By IRVIN S. COBB

OUR COUNTRY was enjoying one of its regular Japanese war-scare. I forget now, whether it was the fifteenth or the sixteenth Japanese war-scare. But anyhow, it was the one of the series we had here about five years ago. A congressman, representing a Kansas district, felt that a crisis impended—in fact, that a couple of crises impended. One crisis was the imminence, as he saw it, of hostilities with the little brown brother from across the Pacific; the other was the prospect that he might have strong opposition in his impending race for re-election. However, upon his arrival home, he was pained to note that the voters seemed strangely apathetic as regards the prospect of an invasion by the Mikado's armed forces. By a personal campaign the Representative undertook to arouse his people to the seriousness of the situation.

The first prospective convert he encountered was an elderly farmer, shook his head, in seeming dissent.

"But look here, John," protested the Congressman, "if this war comes it may be necessary to call every able-bodied man in America to arms. You even may be called. Wouldn't you fight the Japs if they set foot on the soil of this country?"

"I reckon I wouldn't do that," said the farmer. "From what I kin understand, most every Japanese is what they call a fatalist."

"What have their fatalistic inclinations got to do with your duty as a patriot?" asked the Congressman.

"Well," said the honest Kansan, "it looks to me like I couldn't derive much nourishment from fightin' with a lot of fellows that think you're doing 'em a personal favor every time you kill one of 'em."

Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith, of South Carolina's vociferous anti-New Deal foe of Professor Rex Tugwell, does not believe in the "kiss and make-up" theory. Recently Smith was invited to introduce the No. 1 Brain Trustster when the latter spoke at a "Farmers' Day" staged by Clemson College.

"Cotton Ed" not only refused, but when a report got around that he would participate in the program, he wrote the President of the college an indignant letter denying he had any intention of being present.
